

Dear parishioners,

This weekend I would like to congratulate two of our serving Acolytes, Eamon Delaney and Bob Burns, who on the 15th October have completed 27 years of service at the table of the Lord. I would like to thank them, on behalf of the whole community, for their dedication and commitment to this very integral ministry. In this Year of Mercy, when we are called to live up to the Mission given to us by Jesus to serve our brothers and sisters in a spirit of love, their service is an example to us all.

Today we welcome all those families who are preparing their children for Reconciliation as they make their commitment to completing the preparation requirements for the Sacrament. Please pray for them all.

After much consultation within our community, today after the homily I have some important matters to address to you. Please listen carefully to the information I will present and prayerfully consider your response.—Fr. Sunny

"The man who with his whole heart serves God will be accepted"

Year of Mercy

Mercy takes us outside ourselves. It makes us one with the rest of the world. Or as Martin Luther King, Jr. reminds us, "The first question which the priest and the Levite asked was, "If I stop to help this man, what will happen to me? But the Good Samaritan reversed the question. He said: "If I don't stop to help this man, what will happen to him?"

A sign in Springdale, Connecticut, makes the whole subject clear. It reads: "There is so much good in the worst of us and so much bad in the best of us, that it's rather hard to tell which of us ought to reform the rest of us."

Strange, isn't it? We expect that God will show us mercy; but, too often, we show so little ourselves. We believe fiercely in capital punishment; we tolerate the thought of nuclear war; we suspect whatever is unlike ourselves. If heaven is based on the same principals, we are all in trouble.

The strangest of all human phenomena, perhaps, is that we take God's mercy for granted for ourselves but find it so hard to be merciful ourselves. If there is any proof that God is "Other", this is surely it.

Perhaps we cannot understand the goodness of God to us because we are so seldom good to others. (extract from "God's Tender Mercy—Reflections on Forgiveness" by Joan Chittister, OSB)

Congratulations to all the little ones Baptised in our church last month: Zac Terry Berryman, Lily June Vernon, Ella Rose Pruiti, Luca Vincenzo Staker-Mitchell, Eli Mutai Khaemba and Xian Christoff Vicente. Please pray for them and their families.

The Wood of the Cross

A generous parishioner has spent many hours producing beautiful jarrah crucifixes, using the wood from the original altar from our old church. There are a range of options of both hanging and standing crucifixes in different sizes.

These will be available to order at the Advent piety stall over the next two weekends (not today). Once ordered, you will be contacted when your order is ready. Please note that the crucifixes on display are not for purchase as they are our sample set.

THREE EVENINGS WITH ELIZABETH OF THE TRINITY

Our newest Carmelite saint was beatified by Pope Francis last week on the 15th October. She was only 26 when she died, yet she reached such a depth of holiness and understanding that she is now being held up to us as an example of how to live a faithful Christian life. What can she teach us? You can find out, from the comfort of your own home, by enrolling in an on-line course, "Three Evenings with Elizabeth of the Trinity" presented by the Centre for Faith Enrichment. All you need is a computer and an internet connection. Check it out at cfe.org.au
Lots of other great courses on offer too.

ABORTION TRAUMA: Impact on Men & Relationships Forum: Wednesday 9th Nov, 7.30pm. Since receiving a Mental Health grant last year, and engaging with the Men's health services, we are hearing of more and more abortion related male suicides, including school aged boys. To register: Matesandrelationships.org.au or Julie 93131784

PILGRIM STATUE: This week is in the home of Angela Fragomeni, 39 Holden Drive, Noranda. Ph: 0413076359
