

Dear loving sisters and brothers,
In the absence of Fr. Greg, I will be sharing the message of the scriptures during this Easter season, to understand the apostles and the early Church on the meaning of the resurrection in Christ's teaching. Today, two thousand years later we often take these realities for granted. We have come far from the history of Christianity and teachings. For the apostles and the early Church this was all new. What does it mean that Jesus rose again from the dead? What will happen to us when we too rise from the dead? When we question these truths and doubt certain aspects of our faith, we are in good company.

In the first reading, Peter invites the Jews to be converted and to believe in Christ. They need to turn away from looking away from Christ, to looking towards Christ and to believe in him and his teachings. Conversion does not only imply leaving sin behind, but also to change our way of life to reflect our new life in Christ.

This very experience of repentance and forgiveness is relived in every community in the Eucharistic celebration, especially on Sundays. The Eucharist, the privileged place in which the Church recognises "the Author of life" (Acts 3: 15) is "the breaking of the bread", as it is called in the Acts of the Apostles. In it, through faith, we enter communion with Christ, who is "the priest, the altar and the lamb of sacrifice" and is among us. Let us gather around Him to cherish the memory of His words and of the events contained in Scripture; let us relive His Passion, death and Resurrection.

In celebrating the Eucharist, we communicate with Christ, the victim of expiation and from Him we draw forgiveness and life. What would our lives as Christians be without the Eucharist? The Eucharist is the perpetual, living inheritance which the Lord has bequeathed to us in the Sacrament of His Body and His Blood and which we must constantly rethink and deepen so that, as venerable Pope Paul VI said, it may "impress its inexhaustible effectiveness on all the days of our earthly life" (Insegnamenti, V [1967], p. 779).

— Blessings of the Risen Lord — Fr. John
